In our latest issue of Quest, we told you about a new article on the diagnosis and management of ME/CFS published by Dr Alison Basted and Dr Lynn Marshall. The article was released in "Reviews of Environmental Health", a journal published by the company De Gruyter.

Upon publication, there was a fee for accessing the article. The National ME/FM Action Network contacted De Gruyter, drew attention to the importance of the article and asked if the fee could be waived. We are absolutely delighted to report that De Gruyter agreed to remove the fee for everyone. You can now access the article free of charge by clicking on this link:

The National ME/FM Action Network would like to thank De Gruyter for making this document freely available!
